A UNIQUE CITY IS DEFINED BY THE QUALITY OF ITS ART AND THE RICHNESS OF ITS HISTORY: EXPERIENCE BOISE.
DEAR FRIEND
OF ARTS & HISTORY,

We’re pleased to share our Department of Arts & History FY2019 Annual Report. You’ll find a robust summary of the activities from the year, including significant progress for our two newest programs, City Archives and Cultural Sites.

The City Archives continued to grow as we accessioned archival materials from other City of Boise departments and began processing community-based collections such as the Burns Studio Collection (accessioned in Fiscal Year 2018), an unparalleled community gift of photographs and cameras from a local photography business. In Fiscal Year 2019, staff from both the Archives and History Division worked diligently on arranging and describing the archival materials, cataloging artifacts, and rehousing many of the delicate items for long-term protection.

After only one year of operation, the James Castle House was accepted into the Historic Artists’ Homes and Studios Program of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, the first member site in Idaho. With this admission, the James Castle House joined a prestigious network that includes sites such as the Georgia O’Keefe Home & Studio in Abiquiú, New Mexico. The program brings museums together to conserve the legacy of creativity in the visual arts in America and collectively serves more than one million visitors annually throughout the United States.

Arts & History played a crucial role in supporting efforts led by descendants of the region’s original inhabitants to rename a city park and a city-administered foothills reserve in honor of their ancestors. City Council passed two resolutions to approve the name changes. A third resolution approved by the city council affirmed the City of Boise’s commitment to valuing the historical and contemporary importance of the Indigenous Boise Valley Tribes. With the council’s action, the City moved ahead with renaming Quarry View Park as Eagle Rock Park in recognition of the tribes’ historical name for the striking natural landmark featuring a balancing rock in the foothills above the park. Also, Castle Rock Reserve became Chief Eagle Eye Reserve in honor of the leader of a peaceful band of 70 Weiser Shoshone, who in 1878 refused to relocate to reservations and instead lived quietly in the mountains of Idaho for two decades. Chief Eagle Eye died in 1896 and is buried at the top of Timber Butte, overlooking his homeland.

Our other programs – History, Grants, Public Art, Care and Conservation, and general administrative operations that include communications, planning, and cultural programs (such as the Mayor’s Awards for Excellence in Arts & History) continued in full force to round out a busy and productive year and fulfilling our department mission to empower people in Boise to create, engage, and connect with the community.
MISSION
To enhance Boise by providing leadership, advocacy, education, services, and support for arts and history in order for people to create, engage and connect with the community.

VISION

ADMINISTRATION

Administrative functions encompass communications and outreach, cultural planning, and department events. See highlights below from Fiscal Year 2019.

CULTURAL OUTREACH & EDUCATION

Staff worked on several project campaigns in FY2019, along with essential established core duties. Major projects included the potential new Library Campus, Center for Arts & History and Event Space (paused as of August 2019); the 2019 Mayor’s Awards for Excellence in Arts & History along with the appointment of the City of Boise’s newest Cultural Ambassador, MING Studios, for Fiscal Years 2020 and 2021; and programming related to the Boise River Greenbelt 50th Anniversary, such as history walking tours and new public art. In addition, staff managed announcements related to the James Castle House and its acceptance into the Historic Artists’ Homes and Studios (HAHS) program of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. These endeavors required much behind-the-scenes planning and execution, from campaign coordination and event management to developing promotional materials and hosting public outreach opportunities.

Communications staff planned and coordinated all electronic media for the department, such as social media postings, and worked with each program manager to facilitate communications, marketing, and promotional materials. The outreach and education coordinator also initiated and responded to media inquiries related to department initiatives and served as a liaison with the City’s Community Engagement team to provide a comprehensive and cohesive approach for the City’s general communication strategies.

Work continued with the City’s two Cultural Ambassadors (for Fiscal Years 2018 and 2019), Global Lounge and Boise State University’s Velma V. Morrison Center for the Performing Arts, to help link their work with the City of Boise’s goals and cultural outreach efforts, such as free public cultural events.

Staff contracted with COMENGAGE.US (Northwest Research Group), with support from the Mayor’s Office and the Office of Community Engagement, to develop and conduct a scientific survey to gauge the public’s understanding of, perceptions about, and participation level with the department and its offerings. The results from the survey will be available in early FY2020. Staff will follow up with related community outreach efforts, including convening focus groups.
2019 MAYOR’S AWARDS FOR EXCELLENCE IN ARTS & HISTORY

Mayor David Bieter presented the 2019 Mayor’s Awards for Excellence in Arts & History at this biennial event that began in 1999. Honorees included:

Excellence in History
Idaho Black History Museum
(represented by Phillip Thompson)

Excellence in Arts
Randy Van Dyck

Lifetime Achievement
Tom Tompkins

The ceremony was held on September 5, 2019 in balmy 98-degree sunshine on City Hall Plaza. The Boise Community Band provided a festive ambiance at this free public event.

Mayor Bieter also announced MING Studios, represented by Jason Morales, as the FY2020-FY2021 Cultural Ambassador.

Mayor’s Awards nominees must be a Boise citizen or Boise-based organization that demonstrate alignment with the Department of Arts & History’s Equal Opportunity Statement and two or more of the following traits:

- Creative and/or intellectual accomplishment;
- Work that benefits the artistic, historic, and broader cultural life of Boise;
- Leadership in education;
- Forging innovation or collaboration; and
- Distinguished service and/or support.

FY2018-FY2019 CULTURAL AMBASSADORS

Global Lounge and the Velma V. Morrison Center for Performing Arts served as the City of Boise’s Co-Cultural Ambassadors for FY2018 and FY2019.

In FY2019, Global Lounge produced their 3-day World Village Festival (June 21-23, 2019). The event attracted thousands of residents and visitors with free performances along with food and craft vendor booths representing individuals and cultural groups from all over the world who are now in the Boise area. In addition, Global Lounge conducted outreach efforts and engagement opportunities throughout the year with both local residents and people from throughout the nation and world.

The Velma V. Morrison Center for Performing Arts continued their mission to encourage cultural and intellectual activities for the benefit and enjoyment of all Idaho citizens, such as by attracting national and international artists in the performing arts and fostering the growth of community arts groups.

The City of Boise’s Cultural Ambassador acts as Boise’s honorary representative to share Boise’s cultural community by engaging with national and international audiences through the public expression of culture.
CULTURAL PLANNING
The Cultural Planning division of the Department of Arts & History focuses on implementing the Boise City Cultural Master Plan in collaboration with community partners. In its current form, this involves integrating five primary goals into City of Boise operations:

1) Develop cultural policy;
2) Enhance and preserve neighborhood places;
3) Maintain and develop cultural assets;
4) Foster organizations and partnerships; and
5) Expand cultural resources for individuals.
Honoring Boise’s Indigenous People

- October 8, 2018 - Indigenous People’s Day Mayoral Proclamation and Event: Mayor David Bieter read a proclamation to commemorate Boise’s first Indigenous People’s Day. The event, held on City Hall Plaza, included speakers from local indigenous groups and the Idaho Commission on Hispanic Affairs and also featured drummers from the Shoshone Bannock Tribes.

- June 14, 2019 – Return of the Boise Valley People Event: Boise Mayor David Bieter, members of Boise City Council, Idaho State Governor Little, and members of the Return of the Boise Valley People Committee hosted a Renaming Ceremony on the opening day of the Return of the Boise Valley People, an annual event that serves as a homecoming celebration for Indigenous People of the region. Quarry View Park was renamed Eagle Rock Park and Castle Rock Reserve was renamed Chief Eagle Eye Reserve.

Beyond Boise’s Boundaries: Neighborhood Arts, History, and Development Tours

Arts & History continued an ongoing partnership with the City’s Planning and Development Services Department and its Energize our Neighborhoods Program to conduct public neighborhood tours in various locations that emphasized the intersection of history, art, neighborhood development and city-funded amenities. Tour locations included the East End, Barber Valley, Depot Bench, and Central Bench.

Training

- Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion: Angela Taylor, a consultant from Dignitas Agency, provided training for all Arts & History Department staff, which spanned three multi-hour sessions.

- National Trust for Historic Preservation: This training focused on sites of African American History in Portland, Oregon, March 28-30, 2019, to help selected staff prepare for the Erma Hayman House project.

- New Frontiers in Arts Research Symposium: The purpose of this training, held in Bloomington, Indiana, May 8-9, 2019, was to familiarize staff with current research related to the arts.
ARCHIVES

A successful archive program is responsible for identifying, preserving, and making accessible records and papers of enduring value. Correspondence, meeting minutes, photographs, and maps—they all tell a story. And if we want these stories to survive, we must commit to maintain and care for them. The Boise City Department of Arts & History’s Archives program was created for this purpose.

FISCAL YEAR 2019 HIGHLIGHTS

New Acquisitions
Staff accepted donations from a variety of sources to complement and grow existing collections. Highlights include:

- Two new neighborhood association collections, one from the Barber Valley Neighborhood Association, and the other from the Collister Neighborhood Association;
- Materials from City departments, including Fire, Public Works, and Planning & Development Services, as well as from the Mayor’s Office;
- Records related to the Vox Poplar public art project;
- 1930’s scrapbook of Idaho history made by North Junior High students; and
- Boise building blueprints, photographs, and books.

Outreach/Engagement
The Arts & History Department’s archives and cultural outreach and education staff worked together to promote the archives program and help connect Boise citizens with local history and archival materials. A sample of efforts included:

- Participation in monthly U.S. National Archives social media hashtag parties;
- Creating social media posts related to archives for Department of Arts & History;
- Responding to multiple research and records requests from the public for use in lectures and books about local history; and
- Participation in successful 50th Greenbelt anniversary celebration.
Collection Assessment, Processing, & Care

Much of the archivist’s work is comprised of behind-the-scenes duties that contribute to providing continual care for collections and exploring ways to provide public access. In FY2019, this work included:

- Rehousing and processing several prominent collections, including the Greenbelt “Happy Hoofers” and Hulls Gulch records;
- Initiating a collection-wide survey to identify historic images suitable for digitization;
- Researching digital content management systems with the ability to provide public access to collections through Arts & History website;
- Continued maintenance of leased storage facility, with special attention to temperature and humidity control and the pest monitoring plan; and
- Processing collections and tracking and updating records in the department’s content management system, Re:discovery’s Proficio software.
CARE & CONSERVATION

Care & Conservation staff manages preventative inspections, maintenance, and a collections database for the entire public art collection.

Public Art Conservation and Maintenance
A&H staff provides essential, comprehensive maintenance and conservation management for the existing and growing public art collection and carefully tracks its 906 cultural assets, an addition of 60 new site-based artworks in FY2019. This collection reflects a fiscal year-end total value of $6,613,950.

Staff also manages contracts for corrective repairs necessary for specialized work and large restoration projects. Staff must be vigilant in researching and assessing materials to maximize an artworks’ lifespan. Many other factors also affect the condition of public art collections. Along with exposure to human contact, the seasonal elements accelerate rates of decay and can be especially hard on our outdoor works. These and other challenges are exacerbated by Boise’s population growth and ensuing increase in construction.

New buildings and infrastructure sometimes require the relocation or deaccession (removal) of public art. These scenarios require communication with our community to inform and manage the expectations of our citizens.

Special thanks to City of Boise staff from the following departments: Airport, Parks & Recreation, Information Technology, Planning & Development Services, and Facility Services. Their assistance helps with the care and conservation of our one-of-a-kind city assets.

FISCAL YEAR 2019 HIGHLIGHTS

Administrative:
- Continued working with the Information Technology Department to implement VueWorks, a software program to track work orders, program costs and maintenance schedules.

Citywide
- 214 traffic box locations required extensive signage repair/replacement, cleaning the box as well as clearing access areas.
- Staff contracted with artist Benjamin Victor to clean and wax 11 large bronze sculptures. Work was completed early (October) in fiscal 2020. Works included: Firefighters Memorial, Cecil D. Andrus Memorial, Portal sculpture in BoDo, Sprout sculpture in Morris Hill Park, Boise Totems (3) sculptures in downtown, Keepsies sculpture at Fort Boise, Seated Lincoln sculpture and Julia Davis Memorial in Julia Davis Park, Ann Morrison Memorial at Ann Morrison Park, and Call and Respond at Fire station 8.
- Staff provided various corrective maintenance to over 25 public art installations.
BODO

• Repairs and maintenance of the “Eco-Art” installations titled Virgo and Heliotrope. This included managing contractors and removing frequent graffiti and vandalism.

Downtown

• Valley Regional Transit (VRT) Main Station – All eight pieces in the mural collection received a thorough cleaning.

• Welcome to Boise – 10-foot-tall entrance signs were treated for rust removal, hardware update and new paint. In addition, two outdated wayfinding kiosks in need of repair were permanently removed.

Boise Watershed

• The 13-foot-tall Headwaters sculpture is a polished stainless-steel sculpture that sits elevated over a water feature. Staff cleans, polishes and applies protective coatings to the work on a seasonal basis.

Parks

• Of the 54 park projects staff manages, the interpretive site/public artwork Historic Streetcar at Ivy Wild Park, a frequent target of vandals, required attention to remove graffiti and repair the roof and signage. Neighbors working with Boise Police have helped monitor and decrease vandalism incidents.

Deaccessions: Public art works have varying lifespans and circumstances that on occasion require deaccession. The following deaccessions occurred in FY2019.

• Boise Bench/Depot: The roundabout mosaic titled Infernum Beastiae

• Sidney’s Niche mural on 8th street between Main & Idaho streets (downtown Boise)

• Homage to the Pedestrian, a series of musical light posts along the west side of Grove Plaza

By the 1930s, the neighborhood housed about 80 African American families. Erma Hayman lived in the house from the late 1940s until her death in 2009. (Erma originally moved to the neighborhood in 1927.) Boise’s Hayman House will serve as a cultural and historic resource for community events and programs and is scheduled to open to the public in 2021.

Goals of the project:

• Enhance and protect the Hayman House site as an identifiable cultural destination
• Inform the public about the history of the Hayman House, Erma Hayman, and the River Street Neighborhood with site improvements, public art, and interpretative signage
• Consider the larger picture of this Boise cultural gem within the context of the nearby greenbelt, library, historical museums, and other cultural landmarks
• Keep the site friendly, safe, accessible, and interesting
• Reflect the diverse community voice of the River Street Neighborhood

Related public art programing and education also expand the artist community and public’s knowledge and understanding of the arts and culture in relation to their surroundings.

Eligible City of Boise capital projects set aside 1.4% of funds annually to integrate public art into city-owned facilities and the public right-of-way. The Department of Arts & History’s Public Art staff identify suitable opportunities and locations for new projects and manage artist selection, fabrication, and installation. Staff also works with the department’s Care & Conservation team to manage and care for the entire collection. Free tours, print media, website information, community lectures and workshops all serve to educate the public about the collections. Staff members also manage public art projects for Capital City Development Corporation and others who contribute funds to commission original public art in Boise.
